MUSIC-THE DRAMA.

MADAME PATTES CONCERT.

It seemed on Thursday evening as if the scating ad standing capacity of the Academy of Music was strained to the utmost by the authence gathered together to hear the first l'atti concert, and yet there must have been several hundred more persons pres-ent yesterday afternoon at the second concert. The exhibition of interest in the fair singer has been astounding, and the wildest expectations of Mr. Abbey were more than realized. The receipts for the two concerts have certainly argregated $18,000 and may have exceeded that sum. Yet the audiences have not been "society" audiences. The boxes con-tained strange faces, and on Thursday evening there was no brilliancy, of dress. It looked as if a large contingent came from the small towns around New-York and the rest from the lovers of music who were anxious not to miss what might be the last appearance of the diva in this city, Yesterday's enterminment, so far as beautiful Nesternay's entertainment, so far as beautiful vocalization is concerned, reached its climax in Madaine Pattil's performance of Arditi's "Kiss Waltz," a hobity that the fair singer has ridden to victory a thousand times. Her other music was "Ah, forse e lul," from "Traviata." and that assigned to Margaret in the Garien Scene in Gounod's "Paust," which was given in costume and with the stage set, Enthusiasm followed her all the afternoon, She stupplegaret in the Garen Scene in describe which was given in costume and with the stage set. Enthusias in followed her all the afternoon. She supplemented the "traviata" air with an unvocal vecal arrangement of Architis gavotte. "L' Ingenie," and repeated "II bacio." The other artists without exception also won recalls. Mr. Abbey announces that in consequence of the great success of these two concerts Madame Patti will return to the city and give a third on Monday evening of next week.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

The tide of popularity which was turned away from the Casino by the unfortunate Violet Cameron engagement has been brought back by "Erminie" and during last week it flowed generously and most gratifyingly to the management. The operetta has reasserted its away over the picasure-loving public with all its away over the picasure-loving public with all its among the cleverest of current operettas, and its music is all bright and clever. Mr. Wilson comes back, after his absence from the scene of his many triumphs to continue his finest performance funnier than ever.

The musical portion of the Thanksgiving service to be held at the South Church, Broadway and Twentyfirst-st, will be beautified by Mendelssohn's air, "Hear ve, Israel," sung by Miss Hattie Louise Simms and hymns and anthems by Staner, Barnby and Randigger,

At to-night's Casino concert the artists who are in Madame l'atti's company will appear. Madame Scalchi will sing the gavotte from " Mignon " and the Scalchi will sing the gavotte from "Righon" and the drinking song from "Lucrezia Borgia"; Signor Galassi, Wagner's "Evening Star" and with Signor Novara the duet from "I Puritani"; Signor Guille, "M'Appari" and with Madame Scalchi the tamiliar duet from "Il Trovatore"; Madame Novara a song by Gomez and a bolero by Arditi. The quartet "Mezzanotte" from "Martha" will also be sung, and the orchestra will number fifty musicians.

The first of the chamber music concerts of the Philharmonic Club will take place at Chickering Hall on Tuesday evening.

Organ concerts are much more numerous this season than last. Mr. Gerrit Smith began his second series in the South Church yesterday. Mr. Archer will resume his matinees to morrow in Chickering Hall, when Miss Hattie Clapper will sing and Michael Banner play the violin. At the same place on Friday afternoon the first of the long series of recitals projected by Mr. John White will occur. Mr. White will have the help of Mrs. Jessica Haskell Fuller, soprano, and Mr. Alexander Lambert, pianist.

The date of the first of the three soirces to be given this season by the New-York String Quartet has been changed from the 7th to the 2d of December.

Mr. Couried's Opera Company will return to the Grand Opera House with "The Gypsy Baron " to-

The opera list at the Metropolitan this week is as follows: Monday and Saturday matinee, "The Golden Cross" and "Vienna Waltzes"; Wednesday "The Prophet"; Friday "Tannbauser." On the two last mentioned dates Herr. Niemann will appear. Mr. Jefferson's engagement at the Star Theatre, to begin on November 29, will be devoted to "Rip Van Winkle." Mr. Jefferson has not played this part in New-York in several years, and therefore the recurrence of this familiar play will possess to many persons an air of novelty. Lawrence Barrett will produce "Rienzi" on December 13 in Washington instead of Mr. Boker's tragedy "Calay-nos," the revision of the latter not having yet been satis-factorily concluded for him by the author. Miss Helen Dauvray will appear next week in Louisville.

Her company has been recruited by the addition of Joseph Whiting, J. G. Saville, and others.

Mr. Mantell will reappear in New-York next month and produce "Tangled Lives."

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

WEDDINGS, TEAS, AND A GREEK PLAY, 'THE ACHARNIANS" AT THE ACADEMY-MISS

HEWITT'S MARRIAGE AT RINGWOOD. Weddings, teas, the theatre and the Greek play given by the students of the University of Pennsylvania at the Academy of Music, were the principal sources of amuse ment for fashionable people in New-York last week. The Greek play was shrewdly arranged to be given under the auspices of such well-known ladies as Mrs. Barnard, Mrs. Choate, Mrs. C. F. Chandler, Mrs. Henry Drisler, and Mrs. S. V. R. Cruger, and consequently the old Academy was well filled on Friday night with men women prominent in society. There were present James Russell Lowell, John Jay, President Barnard and many well-known college professors. An entertainment thus backed up could not fail to succeed even at three dollars a head, and a round sun must have been secured for the benefit of the American school at Athens. Opinions varied, of course, or Friday evening as to the success of the actual performance on the stage, but the students might fairly say in reply to erificism that few people in the audience were fit judge of Greek comedy and how it should be played. The most fashionable welding of the week was the one long anticipated, Miss Hewitt's and Dr. Green's, at Ringwood, N. J. It would be hard to find a better place for a wedding than Mr. Hewitt's country house. There is plenty of space and yet no end of gulet nooks for quiet couples. On this occasion the beauty and luxuriance of Mr. Hewitt's greenhouses were transferred to the room of the dwelling. The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was, perhaps, the most handsomely decorated. with clematis and chrysanthenums. In the bay-window was built an arbor of orange trees, and there the bridal party gathered. Miss Hewitt was a beautiful bride, in white brocaded moire satin. She wore diamonds and pearls, the gifts of her sisters, the bride groom and her father. The best man was Allen Thorndike Rice; the usbers were Cooper Hewitt, Edward Hewitt, Center Hitchcock, F. Gray Griswold, Charles G. Peters and N. Griswold Lorillard. The bride's sisters, Miss Sarah and Miss Eleanor Hewitt, acted as bridesmaids, and their attendants were the two little girls of Lloyd S. Bryce. There was a large company of friends present and the costumes of the ladies were uncommonly handsome for a day wedding. It is unnecessary to mention the names of the guests who were there. The list included most of the prominent people in and about New-York. The Duane-Drake wedding in St. Thomas's on Tuesday at 4 p. m. was a pretty affair. The bride, Miss Drake wore an unusually fine gown of cream-white satin and two fine necklaces, one of pearls and one of diamonds. Her white tulie veil was held in place with diamonds. With a greater sense of propriety than many brides wh are married in Episcopal churches, she carried a prayer book. The reception was at the house of Walter C. Stokes,

The same evening Miss Todd, of No. 718 Madison-ave. was married to C. H. Tucker at the Collegiate Dutch Church in the presence of a well-dressed assembly, no one but people in evening costume being admitted to the body of the church. This would not be a popular rule to enforce at weddings generally.

Among other interesting weddings was that of Miss Rogers, daughter of H. H. Rogers, who was married to W. E. Benjamin in the Church of the Messiah on Wednesday evening. After the ceremony there was a large reception at No. 26 East Fifty-seventhes. This honse, which is exceedingly handsome within, was beautifully decorated with flowers for the occasion. The wedding of Miss Coles and Mr. Knowles at noon drew a large number of friends of both families to the Madison Avenue Baptist Church. At noon also on this day in the Church of the Transfiguration in East Twenty-ninth-st. Miss Ella S. Coglail was married to Levin Joynes, of Kielmond, Virginia. Her brother gave the bride away. The bridesmaids were Miss Julia Coghill, Miss Ella Garter Wester Miss Julia Coghill, Miss Ella d'Etreville and the Misses Mayo, of Richmond. Manly Curry, Edward Meyers, Francis Davenport and Thomas Carter were the ushers, while Dudley McDonald acted as best man. It was a pretty wedding. The favorite flower was the chrysanthemum.

Mrs. John Sherwood read a paper about the success of the club, and bespeke the Stewart mansion at Fifth-ave, and Thirty-fourth-st, for a ladies' club house. Friends of the club who anticipate being invited to some of the meetings this winter will be grieved to know that a resolution to raise the club dues, so that more to eat could be provided at the gatherings, was laid on the table. The usual bill-of-fare of ten ice-water and sandwiches will continue during the season.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. C. H. Dodge, of No. 26 East Thirty-uinth-st., introduced Miss Helen Kingsford to her friends over a cup of tea. Mrs. Victor Newcombe will give a tea on December 6, when Miss Edith Newcombe will be presented to her mother's friends. A ball will be given for her, it is said, in A ten will be given by Mrs. John Lawrence, of No. 33 West Seventeenth-st., on Wednesday, December 1, when Miss Lawrence will make her débût.

Miss Maud Robbins, daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Robbins, will appear in society formally for the first time on the afternoon of December 8, when her mother gives a tea for that purpose. A similar testivity will occur on Kovember 27 at the house of Mrs. John H. Zerega for Miss Charlotte Zerega's sake.

The fair in the Mendelssohn Glee Club's room, in behalf of the New-York Diet Kitchen, on Friday, was well at-tended, as any affair under the management of this charity is sure to be.

Mrs. Hicks-Lord, of No. 32 Washington Square, will be at home on Thursdays in December from 4 to 7 o'clock. Cards will be sent out the last of this month.

Cards will be sent out the last of this month.

The marriage of Miss Titus and Henry W. Sackett in the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, on Wednesday afternoon, was entirely devoid of display, as was becoming in the daughter of an old Quaker family. Dr. Taylor, of the Broadway Tabernaele of this city, a personal friend of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. The bride, who was mattended by maids of honor, wore white satin, trimmed with lace, and a taile veil. Her bouquet was of Nepherlos roses. Mr. and Mrs. Sackett will live in Brooklyn during the winter until Mr. Sackett's house at Riverdale is completed. A wedding reception in their honor will be given on December 1, at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Titus, No. 90 Hancock st., from 4 to 6 p. m.

Among those who will be present at the supper to be given to Miss Fortescue by the Amateur Comedy Club, at Delmonice's on Monday night, are Judgee Brady and Miss Brady. Mr. and Mrs. Sanuel Post, Mrs. Drexel, Mrs. George H. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. Schack, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, Miss. Edith Draper, Miss Amy Draper, Miss Van Auken, Mrs. Stevens, Mr. Chauncey, Mr. Wendell, Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Dyer and Mr. Lowrey.

TESTIFYING AGAINST DE MESTRE.

Vincent de Mestre, the ex-Spanish naval officer who is accused of robbing Mite. Jeanne de Maynard, the French opera stager, of $210, was arraigned at Jefferson Market Court yesterday. De Mestre was represented by his counsel, Roderick Robinson, and Mile, de Maynard by Charles Le Barbier. Mile, Maynard testified that she had met de Mestre at the Hotel Royal of England in Rio Janeiro, and that she arrived in New-York on October 24 with him. He took her to Mrs. Austin's house in East Twenty-fifth-st. and he took £44 from her to get changed. When crossexamined she testified that she pawned her jewelry for $165 a few days after she had the trouble with de Mestre. Mile, de Maynard by Charles Le Barbier. Mile, May-Mestre.

Mrs. E. P. Austin stated that she had known de Mestre for twelve years. He brought Mile, de Maynard to her house on October 24, and some days afterward the new boarder toid her that she had given de Mestre her money to have changed. De Mestre called at the house three times to see Mile, de Maynard, and then did not come again until she went to his house and asked him by a note to call on Mile, de Maynard, She heard the conversation between the woman and de Mestre on the day of the quarrel, and had seen him strike Mile, de Maynard. He had stated that he was hard pushed for money and had used the money which the woman had given him, but would return it in instalments. When cross-examined she said she had lived under the name of Austin for six years, but that she had formerly gone by the name of Bartlett, which was her maiden name. De Mestre's lawyer asked her a number of questions, but she stuck closely to her story. She told about Mile, de Maynard's having gone to Niagara Falls with a man and remained for several days, but that she had no money and was compelled to pawn her diamonds and had paid her $98.45 for board

"PRISONERS OF POVERTY."

To the Editor of The Tribune. SIR: The repetition of the fact that every person born into the world must inevitably at some time sieken and suffer and die, however thrillingly stated, leads by itself to no advantageous result. It may be hoped that the author of "The Case of Rose Haggerty," before concluding, will take note of facts tunning parallel with her statements, which are as obvious as Mont Blanc to the beholder. The children benefited by THE TRIBUNE Fresh-Air Fund are received by kind people with pleasure, and the parting is with regret. The children of the Children's Aid Society are welcomed to country homes, and do well. Even crippled or diseased children are sometimes taken from public institutions, and adopted by respectable people. House-keepers besiege Castle Garden for unskuled peasant girls for domestic service, and the official says are unjustly vexed at the supposed partiality which prevents their wants teing supplied. There is no partiality. but the unskilled peasants can do better, and do not as a rule need the positions effered.

In New York City I have been for unate enough to secure such domestics as I needed, my family consisting of two middle-aged people of simple habits. Carl Benson, in his last illness, said that he felt like writing a palinode to the Irish, and I can appreciate his feeling. am pleased to say that the highly appreciated Roses and Bridgets (who have made our rives comfortable) have had invariable good health with us, and have sayed an amount of money with a minimum of risk and anxiety impossible to small shop-keepers. But outside of New York City, although we live near a town of 2,000 inhabitants, similar advantages offered by us have not been decided worth accepting, except for a few weeks at a time at long intervals. The persons whose services we needed could do better, not in money value alv ays, but in freedom of action, or some other advantage more highly prived than anything we could offer.

I understand Helen Campbell in her "Case of Rose I understand Heien Campbell in her "Case of Rose Haggerty," to butimate distinctly that if these persons met with misfortune or fell into distress of any kind, we, in common with the great mass of average citizens, were responsible for their calamity; that we should have foreseen and provided against the possible failure of meir choice of occupation in life. If she does not mean exactly that, I am unable to perceive any meaning at all in her statements. Rose Haggerty, herself almost a could, attempted to support four other children. This was not impossible, as it was done for awhile, but could not always be done in a business presenting great attractions to large, numbers of other people, better attent or less burdened. The sai wreek is charged by the author not to light orance of or neglect of abounding opportunities in this Paradise of Labor, out to the fact that that particular business, in that place, at that time, did not pay energia to apply ser reasonable wants, and that it was the duty of somebody to see that it did pay enough.

not pay enough to supply ser reasonable wants, and that it was the duty of somebody to see that it did pay enough.

Donotiess labor of brain and hand is king, and the best king that ever reigned, but in paying homage to take most estimable monared it is not necessary to know the rules of air innette or sim lar elemal vertices. People are no longer necessitated to pack within the high waits of fortined towns like sardines in a box. Transportation is comfortable, easy and cheap. Even those without a dollar and without a notice except restlessness, walk with facility from Boston to New-York, and from New-York to Chicago and back again, provided to if the weather he not cold. Mr. Henry Godree will know, now that he is at leisure, take up and cultivate the 160 acres of moccupied land which is his legal and rightful share, if he comply with the indispensable condition that he shall live on it. Great numbers of my meighbors have done except that thing, and they do not consider the increment as uncarned, nor will Mr. George; and when he chooses to sell, the purchaser will be pleased that some one has been before him, and made roads and young ordards, and will not granuble at all at the enhancest price, because he in his turn expects to make the land still more habitable and descrable mentless succession. The flustration used by Mr. George of the built seen winding himself up the post to which be was tenered, and bellowing win pain and hunser, is apt. Certainly, Mr. George, cut any rope whatever that the sample yourself and they may follow you.

WHY NOT START COFFEE-HOUSES HERE?

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: It is hoped by the friends of temperance in New-York City that the visit of Mr. Frederick Gore, of London, to this country may be the means of establishing one of more "limited liability " companies, on the English plan, to maintain coffee-houses similar to those abroad, the most of which have proven to be thoroughly successful as business enterprises and have accomplished an immense

PREFERRING DEATH TO IMPRISONMENT. Mrs. Annie Betz kept a lodging house in Madison-ave. in February, 1885. She went to F. P. Durffor, of No. 72 February, 1885. She went to F. P. Durffer, of No. 72
West Thirty-fifth-st, and borrowed $1,500, giving him a mertgage on her furniture. Last September Mr. Durffer went to get his money, and Mrs. Betz did not have it. He finally discovered that she had sold a part of her goods, had moved to a boarding house kept by Mrs Young, at No.
110 East Thirty-fourth-st., and intended to dispose of the rest of the furniture. Mr. Durffer had Mrs. Betz arrested yesterday. Officer Kelly, of the Jefferson-Market squad, went to serve the warrant. When he entered the room and told Mrs. Betz that he had come to arrest her, she jumped from her chair, and grasping a pair of shears from the bureau threatened to kill herself. She nearly succeeded in running the shears into her breast. Officer Kelly had a struggle with her and at last succeeded in getting the shears away from her. When arraixed at Jefferson Market Mrs. Betz pleaded not guilty and was held for examination in $1,000 bail.

A MAN BLOWN OVER THE FENCE. During the storm last Thursday George Sweet, a produce dealer, living in South Orange, N. J., met with a uce dealer, living in South Orange, N. J., met with a singular experience. He was driving to Newark, and when it began to rain hard be moved his wagon seat a few feet back for better protection. A fierce gust of wind caught the wagon and carried it to the side of the road, and Sweet had arisen to adjust the canvas top when a strong blast of wind struck the wagon, tore the top from its fustenings and carried it through the air. Sweet was caught in the wagon top and was borne with it over fences and across the field nearly three hundred feet, where he fell out and lay on the ground partly stunned. His head was cut and he received numerous bruises. The horse was blown into a gully alongside the road and was caught by a man who had witnessed the accident from shelter, sweet was able to drive home and the wagon-top was recovered on Friday some distance from the road.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT CAPE MAY POINT. A HOTEL, MANY COTTAGES AND OTHER PROPERTY

BURNED-LOSS $46,000. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20 (Special). A few moments after 2 o'clock this morning dre was discovered in the third story of the Bellevue Hotel, the largest structure at Cape May Point, N. J. In less than ten minutes the flames had enveloped the building from the foundation to the roof, throwing up a giare that could be seen for miles. The hotel contained sixty rooms and was built entirely of wood. In consequence of the absence of fire apparatus the flames spread to a number of cottages, and within haif an hour from the time the fire was discovered seventeen houses were burning. An engine from Cape May was sent to the scene, and owing to the scarcity of water had to force the element through 2.000 feet of hose from Lake Liky. This stream, however, was so small as to be of little help.

The Sames first spread to Dr. Walker's cottage and to

The Sames first spread to Dr. Walker's cottage and to four cottages belonging to J. H. Berezet. Before these were burned down the fire and ignited the reaf of Mr. Harris's cottages, just south of that of Dr. Walker, and the cottages of Aaron Hand, Captain Remson, and the Rev. Dr. Suples, east of the hotel. Fadles's grocery store next caught and then the large ice-house and the lumber-yard of the Cape May Improvement Association took fire. FOUR FIREMEN BADLY HURT.

FOUR FIREMEN BADLY HURT. CINCINNATI, Nov. 20 .- A fire broke out shortly before

3 o'clock this morning in the fourth story of the whole sale clothing warehouse of Mack, Stadler & Co., No. 109 West Third-st., immediately opposite the Burnett House. Almost immediately the flames found their way into the store of Marcus Fechheimer & Co., also wholesale clothiers, adjoining on the east. These are large six-story Hayes truck ladder high up in front of the burning struc ures, and held his place, even though the falling cornice threatened to kill him. His comrades finally pulled the truck away to save his life. His hands and face were blistered with the heat. About 4 o'clock, when the fire was under control, the floors gave-way with some members of Fire Company No. 4, who fell to the cellar. They were Captain Edward Halstead, seriously but not fatally hart, Captain M. J. Higginsen, also seriously injured, and pipemen Kuhn and Bushkamp, not dangerously hart. There was some damage done to adjoining buildings, but it was not heavy. Following is a detailed statement of iosses and insurances:

Losses—M. & L. S. Feehheimer, on stock, $250,000; Feehheimer heirs, on building, $50,000; Mack, Stadier & Co., on stock, $275,000; Herman and Henry Mack, on building, $50,000; Mr. M. H. Marks, on stock, $5,000. Herman Loeb & Co., on stock, $5,000; total, $635,000.

Insurance—Feenheimer Bros., on stock, $5,000. Feehheimer heirs, on building, $58,000; Mack, Stadier & Co., on stock, $177,000; Herman and Henry Mack, on building, fixtures, etc., $51,000; total, $486,500. truck away to save his life. His hands and face were SILENT TELEPHONES IN ROCESTER.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 20 (Special) .- The fight between the Telephone Company and subscribers came to a practical I-sue at noon to day, when at sounding of steam whistles subscribers hung up instruments to await further developments. One hundred and fifty more names were added to the list of striking subscribers this morning, making nearly eight hundred who have loned the organization. Less than two hundred remain, and these are in outside residences mostly. The company is silent and will not say whether twenty-six operators will be discharged or what action will be taken. No one doubts that the company will be forced to make a compromise.

PHYSICAL SALVATION.

"Blessed Art Thon Above all Others."

Some of the expressions of gratitude for the physical regeneration wrought by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound read like the rejoicing of converts after a religious re-vival. It brings Salvation to the body. A lady in Franklin Parish, La., writes: "I tried one bottle of your Compound or Prolapsus Uteri and Leucorrhosa. I never had anything in my life that did me as much good. I was hardly able to wall about without difficulty. I could not step upon any thing without pain. When I think how much good that one bettle did me. I cel as if I could fall on my knees to you and say, " Blessed ar thou above all others, for thou art one of the greatest bene factors that woman ever had."
